

London, 15th October 2016

University of East London
Docklands Campus
London, UK

facebook:
www.facebook.com/idconference

email:
organization@uel-undergraduate-conference.co.uk

twitter:
@UEL3dimensions

www:
uelidconference.co.uk

CALL FOR PAPERS:

SDGs: WHAT SHOULD BE THE ROLE OF 'DEVELOPED NATIONS'?

11th March 2017
University of East London
Docklands Campus
London, UK

Undergraduates from the University of East London, in partnership with the European Association of Development Research & Training Institutes (EADI), are pleased to invite you to submit* your paper to the University's sixth student led undergraduate conference for development.

Have you just finished your undergraduate dissertation or project? Are you proud of a piece of your degree work? Are you thinking of postgraduate study or just starting on a Masters programme? Then submit an abstract to International Development Student Conference at UEL!

There is no fee for submission of papers or attendance at the conference.*

Why should I attend?

If you have never been to an academic conference before, and never presented your work in a conference setting, then this is a great opportunity to get some experience and find out how it all works. This is a conference organised by undergraduate students, for undergraduate students and we want to hear about the research and work you have been doing.

Who can submit a paper?

Students from a wide variety of disciplines including: anthropology, international development and development studies, international politics and international relations, history, sociology and more. We welcome papers from undergraduate students and students graduating in 2013.

When and where is the conference?

The conference will be held at the Docklands Campus of University of East London, UK on Saturday 11th March. It is a one day event including an evening reception

INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT
UNDERGRADUATE CONFERENCE

Successful entrants will be given the unique opportunity to debate their work in a public forum, receive feedback from academic scholars, interact with publishers and field leaders, meet students from diverse universities and network with a variety of NGOs.

This open conference will centre on subjects pertaining to International Development and International Politics. All participants will be presented with a certificate confirming their attendance and an online journal will be produced presenting the top papers.

What are the paper submission guidelines?

We welcome written papers as well as other forms of presentation such as short documentaries and photo exhibitions. All accepted works will be presented, having been reviewed by a panel consisting of academic experts and publishers.

Undergraduate papers in the region of 2000-5000 words will be accepted. We welcome coursework and other papers. A maximum word limit of 6000 words is in place for those who would like to submit their dissertations.

Papers should address one or more of the following themes:

- War, Conflict and Migration
- Intersecting inequality in Society (including gender, age, class, ethnicity)
- Governance, Institutions and State Building
- Civil Society, Social Movements and Grassroots Organizations
- Population Growth, Resources, Environment
- Sustainable Development, Energy, Climate Change
- Food and Agriculture, Food Security
- Cultural and Social Transformation
- Role of Social Media
- European and International Human Rights Law/ Theories of Justice
- Tourism Impact
- Post-conflict Reconstruction
- Modern Slavery and Trafficking

8th January 2017	Abstract submission deadline
22nd January 2017	Delegates informed if abstract has been accepted
12th February 2017	Papers to be submitted in electronically
11th April 2017	Delegates informed of academic feedback from paper

Contact details:

Email: Organization@uel-undergraduate-conference.co.uk

Website: www.uelidconference.co.uk

Facebook Page: International Development Undergraduate Conference
www.facebook.com/idconference/

European Association of Development Research and Training Institutes